TWO WRECKS IN ONE DAY

ON W. M. R. R. ONE EAST AND ONE WEST OF THIS PLACE.

Twenty three Cars off the Track—Seventeen of Them piled up at Tom's Creek.

Last Friday was a bad day for the Western Maryland railroad, with two wrecks in one day. The one east of this town was not serious, except for the delay occasioned. The other caused damage to track, smashed and piled up seventeen loaded coal cars.

The one eastward was about two miles from town at Wible's cut, six freight cars jumping the track. They did not upset or were not wrecked. It took some hours to get the cars off the track and make necessary repairs. On Friday morning between 1 and 2 o'clock a heavy drag, as it is called, came down the mountain from Hagerstown with a double header. At the east end of Tom's Creek trestle near Iron Springs Station, a car jumped the track with the result that seventeen loaded coal cars followed, plunging over the embankment of 25 feet near the creek. A part of the road bed was torn up the ties being wrenched and torn to pieces. The cars piled up on one another, a number being smashed to pieces. The engines were not drawn into the wreck but stayed on the track. There was no loss of life or injury to any one in either wreck.

All day Friday wrecking crews and section men worked on the wreck at Tom's Creek, repairing road bed and making track passable. On Saturday trains were again running through. On Friday trains from Highfield came as far as the west end of the trestle and the train from Gettysburg to near where the wreck occurred and passengers and baggage were transferred around the wreck.

New Gas Rates.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Gettysburg Gas Company in this place last week, the matter of new schedule of gas rates was taken up and established. The new schedule recognizes four classes as follows: Class A, educational institutions at net rate of $1.25 per 1,000 feet. Class B, hotels, at net rate of $1.15 per 1,000 feet. Class C, engine and manufacturing plants, at a rate of $1.25 per 1,000 feet. Class D, domestic, at rate of $1.65 per 1,000 feet where consumption is under 3,000 feet monthly, from 3,000 to 10,000 feet $1.60, from 10,000 to 15,000 feet $1.55 and 15,000 feet and over $1.50. A discount of 5 per cent. allowed in class D if bill is paid before 15th of each month.

The average gas rate in the large cities is $1.00 per 1,000 feet and the rate in classes A, B and C are said to be as low as a company could make in a town of the population of Gettysburg. The domestic rate, specially for cooking might be lower and may be made lower when the consumption for that purpose is increased.

Cashtown Chrysanthemums.

The chrysanthemums are more numerous and beautiful than in any previous year, and the town is prepared to show this year how well it deserves to be distinguishedly known as a place where these beautiful flowers are grown.

The ladies of Cashtown Reformed church will hold their fourth annual chrysanthemum show and sale, with a bazaar as a new feature, on next Saturday, Nov. 9th. The door will be open from 11 a. m. to 4 p. m. Sale to begin promptly at 2 p. m. Refreshments will be served in tents on the church lawn. Every effort is being put forth to make this the most attractive sale ever held. Everybody will be welcomed.

More Retarded Pensions.

Congress Lafean is quoted as having said to a representative of the York Dispatch that he is of the opinion that nearly all of his soldier constituents entitled to pensions under the Act of Feb. 6, 1907, have received notice of their rating of their pensions, and suggests that if there are any soldiers whose claims under this act have not been adjudicated, that they furnish him with the number of their present pension certificate as well as their service and that he will gladly take up their cases and urge early rating.

Pensions lately rated are as follows: At $20 a month, Lewis E. Kumer, ant. Gettysburg; Wm. Shindledacker, Virginia Mills.

At $15 a month, Joseph Fleck, Gettysburg R. F. D. 3; Abraham Kecker, Gettysburg R. F. D. 3; James Shind, Littlestown.

At $12 a month, John Sneeringer, Bonneauville; Joseph Baldwin, Berrville R. F. D. 1; Theodore Cullison, Gettysburg.

Nearly 300 veterans of Adams Co. have had their pensions rated under this new law of 1907.

Beautiful Bank Building.

The new bank building of the First National Bank has reached a stage in construction where some idea of the beauty of the new building can be had. The building will undoubtedly attract great attention when completed and will be an architectural ornament to the place.

The erection of the stone work has caused many of our people to stop and watch the progress of the building. They have admired the heavy foundation of polished granite and the lighter unpolished granite work to the first story of the building. There has been much interest to see the next course of terra cotta for the second and third stories. This was begun last week and is now advanced to above the windows on the second floor. The terra cotta is in blocks as large as the granite work, and is several shades whiter than the granite work. The completed building will shade off lighter from the polished granite base to the white of the upper stories and will command attention for its beauty.

Crawfords Claim.

Thursday evening, Nov. 14, the Dramatic Association of the Gettysburg High School Alumni will give "Crawfords Claim" in Xavier Hall.

"Crawfords Claim" is a 3 act drama which is meeting with unqualified success throughout the whole country. The first scene is in New York and from there the action is taken to a mining section in Nevada where we are given a true and intensely interesting picture of life among the miners and cow boys. No human mind that has ever had these scenes impressed upon it by actual experience, is able in the mildest flights of his imagination to perceive such a true picture of this phase of life, with all its ranging humor and pathos as is here given by the writer of this play from his own experience.

The play throughout is suggestive, instructive, inspiring. Humor, wit and pathos are so ingeniously combined that the interest never lags. The best talent of the town is employed in the play so that its success is guaranteed. There's fun for all, here's instruction and education for all, there's inspiration for all. Everybody come. Admission 25 and 35 cts. Chart opens at Buehler's Drug Store Monday morning at 7 o'clock.

Throng of Buyers Continue.

The people of Gettysburg and vicinity appreciate the great advantage L. M. Buehler obtained for them, in getting the Dr. Howard Co. to allow regular 50 cent size of Dr. Howard's specific, for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia, to be sold at half price, 25 cents, and have bought hundreds of bottles.

Many orders have come by mail at this popular price, for it is very unusual to be able to buy sixty doses of a standard medicine for half price.

Every bottle of the specific sold by L. M. Buehler has had his personal guarantee to refund the money if it was not satisfactory, but none has come back, showing the wonderful curative power of this remedy.

Unlike ordinary medicines for constipation and dyspepsia, the dose of Dr. Howard's specific is reduced after a few days' use, and the cure is soon complete and lasting.

In New York city the specific is very popular, and many a club man finds he can eat what he wants and when he wants, if he takes a dose of this remedy afterwards.

STRANGE ATTACK AT NIGHT

MADE UPON THE ENGINEER AT THE POWER HOUSE.

Grabbed from the Rear Around the Throat and When He Freed Himself Assailant Fled.

A strange attack was made on S. A. Beck, engineer at the power house of the Gettysburg Transit Company on Sunday night. What the purpose of the attack was, whether to do personally injury to the engineer, or to the plant, or to darken the town for other purposes does not appear.

In the early part of the night Mr. Beck had occasion to go from the engine room to the car barn to get oil to oil up the machinery. He did not notice any one in the barn when he entered and went to where he kept the oil and cans. Picking them up he turned and a man sprang at him from the rear and grabbed him about the throat.

Mr. Beck did not propose to give up without a fight and dropping his oil can he began a tussle with the man holding him. In short order he had freed himself.

Remembering where his pistol was in the engine room he moved toward that room. His assailant at first followed but changing his mind turned away toward the high wooden doors enclosing the car barn. Mr. Beck secured his pistol and awaited further attack.

As no one came he made his way to the telephone and sent word to Harry Cunningham. Word was also gotten to B. F. Myers. In a short time Messrs. Cunningham and Myers and others were at the Power House and began a search of the building for Mr. Beck's assailant. He had escaped from the building. Foot steps were found at a point which clearly showed that at least two men had taken part in the attack. One probably watched while the other one entered the building.

Mr. Beck has no idea as to the identity of the man attacking him. The car barn is but dimly lighted. The attack was from the rear and he did not get a good look at the features of the man. The strange attack and the mysterious purpose has made the matter much talked about.

"PURE NONSENSE"

By F. Harris Deane.

Gladys was dusting the china, and I was watching her.

"I wish I were that china," said I. Not that I meant it, but it sounded sentimental.

"Why?" asked Gladys, glancing over her shoulder.

"To be picked up by you," I answered.

"Pooh!" said Gladys. "I put it down again almost immediately."

"Almost" is such an expensive word," I remarked to my cigarette—which turned red, perhaps because I put it at it.

Gladys seemed about to think, but changed her mind and spoke instead.

"We are, quite," I corrected. Aunt was out, speaking to the cook—something urgent, anyhow.

"You," I began allegorically, "are something in a shop window."

"Something nice," insisted Gladys. "Not necessarily," I said, "but something I want."

"Oh!" murmured Gladys. She appeared to be in some doubt how to take that.

"But I've no money," I continued. "Not really money," said Gladys, who disliked definiteness.

"Really money," I said firmly. "Your mother is the shopkeeper."

"Is that quite nice?" asked Gladys, doubtfully.

"So I can't get you," I concluded, without expressing an opinion.

"I don't see—the—the—what do you call it?" declared Gladys.

"How's that?" I inquired, flicking the ash off my cigarette.

Gladys—well, no, she didn't really blush.

"There's no window to this shop," she explained. Then she did blush. Perhaps she doubted my honesty.

"Your mother is doubling shopkeeper and window," said I, as I heard my aunt's footstep approaching.

She looked at us suspiciously as she came in.

"What are you two talking about?" she inquired.

"Shops," said I promptly. "Wondering whether there'll ever be a bargain sale."

"There's generally one," said my aunt informatively, "every autumn."

She eyed Gladys' depressed expression in surprise. You see, she didn't know she'd been continuing an allegory.

"I loathe bargains!" Gladys burst out.

"Sometimes you can't help getting them," I said, to soothe the little girl's feelings.

I don't think she quite grasped it; but, then, girls often get the meaning from the tone rather than the words.

"Oh, in that case—" she admitted.

"In what case?" asked my aunt, a trifle bewildered.

"In case I ever got a bargain. Gladys wouldn't object," I explained.

Gladys got up in a hurry and continued her dusting. Well, honestly she implied that.

"Why should she object?" demanded my aunt.

I shrugged my shoulders.

"I don't think it's at all nice of you to suggest that Gladys would object," continued my aunt, somewhat annoyed.

"I didn't," I protested. "I said she wouldn't object."

My aunt looked at me with some degree of exasperation.

"You seem to me," she said severely, "to be getting more difficult of comprehension every day. You talk utter rubbish."

"Not utter," I pleaded.

"Utter rubbish," insisted my aunt. "I never can understand you, and I don't think Gladys does, although she pretends to."

"Gladys!" I cried indignantly.

"Not always," she answered.

"There!" said my aunt triumphantly.

"That is," corrected Gladys hurriedly. "I always understand what you say, but not why you say it."

"I speak that I may not think," I explained.

"Now what does he mean by that?" asked my aunt helplessly.

"My meaning," I admitted, "is not very obvious—not to a woman, anyhow."

"There's a difference," explained my aunt kindly, "between foolishness and cleverness."

"That," I acknowledged frankly, "is so. The difficulty is to discover what is the difference."

I paused politely as my aunt appeared to be about to speak.

"Yes?" I said encouragingly.

"Nothing," said she. "Go on."

"I haven't solved the problem myself," I informed her. "The difference between sense and nonsense," I went on, "depends as much on the listener as on the speaker."

My aunt rose to her feet.

"Absurd!" said she. "Sense is always sense. You are talking absolute nonsense."

"You, then," I said admiringly, "have solved the problem."

Would Improve.

Neighbor—My! but that's a billions color you've painted that house of yours.

Other Neighbor—Yes; but it won't stay that way. You see, I mixed a lot of persia syrup with the white lead when I painted it—Judge.

Tied and Untied.

"Was their marriage a failure?"

"Oh, no. They were divorced before it had a chance to be that."—Judge.

DR. OSLER OBJECTS TO SOUP.

According to Him Most Harmful Article of Diet.

Dr. William Osler, to whom is accredited the oft repeated and oft denied assertion that people should be chloroformed after becoming 60 years old, is bitterly opposed to the drinking of soup, according to the statements of a New York merchant.

"My wife was a wreck from nervous dyspepsia," said the merchant. "Several prominent physicians in New York had treated her without success and finally I was advised to take her to Baltimore to see Dr. Osler. He inquired carefully about her habits, and particularly her diet. We described it without going into details, but this did not satisfy the great physician."

"Tell me what you had for dinner," despatching the nature of the courses, their number, and so on," he insisted.

"Well, we usually start with some good, nourishing soup," I began.

"Stop right there," interrupted Dr. Osler. "Soup must go. There is a popular fallacy that soup is nourishing. That is a mistake. It is one of the most harmful things one can eat. It is worse than lobster. Of course there are times when a simple beef or mutton broth is not to be condemned, but as a rule soup is positively dangerous. It dilutes the gastric juices and it ferments too rapidly to permit it to be easily digested. It is the greatest cause of dyspepsia and nervous disorders. Vegetable soup should be thrown into the garbage pail, where it belongs, instead of being poured into a delicate stomach. Half the nervous wrecks among society folk who live well are caused by eating soup."

TRANSFERS AS WEDDING FEE.

Peculiar Emolument Offered to City Pastor.

The pastor of a little Lutheran church up town was called upon the other day to perform a hurried wedding ceremony, says the New York Press. As the couple left the bridegroom thrust a fat envelope into the clergyman's hands. The grateful smile that immediately overspread the clergyman's face gave place to a look of chagrin when later the envelope was found to contain a roll of green street car transfers.

"Why don't you have a regular fee, say two or three dollars, and collect it in advance?" asked a friend to whom he indignantly told the story.

"Because," explained the minister, "even though a mean trick like this is sometimes played on me, I come out better in the long run by leaving it to the other's generosity. My people being mostly poor, they generally give me one or two dollars; but an occasional $10 or $20 pulls up the average. And once, the year of the Pan-American fair, an actor who came in here to be married, said he could give me nothing but a pass to Buffalo and the fair. I gladly accepted, and that is the only outing my wife and I have had for years."

Shook Hands With Lafayette.

One of Springfield's oldest and best known citizens is Nathan P. Humphrey, who has just passed his 97th milestone, says the Hampshire Gazette. He has had the honor of shaking hands with Lafayette, an event in his life that he relates with pleasure.

When a boy of 15 he and another lad rowed across the Connecticut river from South Hadley to Northampton to the old Warner hotel to see the great Frenchman, who was a guest of the townspeople. Arriving at the hotel the two boys found the place filled with people, all eager to see the distinguished man.

The boys stationed themselves at the foot of a flight of stairs, on which it was expected the distinguished Lafayette would appear. When he came down the stairs Humphrey grabbed one hand and his chum caught hold of the other.

Lafayette laughed and said to them: "How are you boys?"

Caught a Man.

In the mountains of Tennessee deer are often caught in a noose attached to a small tree bent over, and which flies back when the victim has been caught and holds him suspended in the air.

Such a trap was set by two boys last winter, and a hunter stepped into it and was left hanging for two days before being found. He said he was very fond of swinging in a hammock for an hour or two, but to swing by one leg for two days was rather too much of a good thing.

Observatory at Greenwich.

In the year 1675 King Charles II. of England founded the Royal observatory at Greenwich, in order that astronomical observations might be made for the assistance of sailors. The history of the observatory has been the history of chronology and of the practical side of astronomy. Its work and its standards have become distinctly international. The meridian of Greenwich now determines the longitude of the world.

New Motor Gas.

"Averaging" the new motor gas is a mixture of air, alcohol vapor and acetylene, resulting from the spraying of about 40 percent over calcium carbide. It is said to be a cheaper fuel than gasoline, and the necessary apparatus for producing it can be adapted to any high-speed gasoline motor.

BOY WINS NOVEL SUIT.

Members of Court Maybe Picked Back to Their Own Youth.

According to a recent decision in the Mississippi courts, electric light companies must insulate trees as well as poles, particularly those trees which invite the small boy climber. In a Mississippi town recently a small boy climbed a tree and coming in contact with the uninsulated wires of a lighting company, which passed through the tree, he received a shock which caused him to fall. As a result the young climber was badly injured and his father brought suit against the lighting company. The tree in question was a small oak, having numerous branches which came close to the ground. The court handed down the novel decision that as the lighting company had knowledge of the tree and what kind of tree it was, it also ought to have seen that it was just the kind of tree into which children were likely to climb. Therefore, said the court, the immemorial habit of small boys to climb trees filled with abundant branches is one of which corporations stretching wires through such trees must take notice. It was held that small boys had a right to climb such trees and a verdict was given in favor of the father.

WHEN TO WIND A WATCH.

The Morning, Not the Evening, the Best Time, the Watchmaker Says.

"Most people," said the watchmaker, "wind their watches at night; but it would be better to wind them in the morning. You see, we are liable to go to bed at different hours, and so wind our watch at irregular intervals; and it is better to wind it regularly. Then we are more liable to forget to wind our watch at night than in the morning and so may let it run down. But we are pretty sure to get up in the morning at our regular hour, whatever the hour at which we went to bed, and so by winding it then we may insure regularity of winding; and the watch is brought to mind then, when we put it on for use, and we are less likely to forget to wind it. So morning is the best time to wind a watch, if you can get yourself into the habit of winding it then."

Men Shun Gew-Gaws.

"There is one thing that no real man will stand for," said the tall girl. "He positively will not carry an umbrella all trimmed up with knots of ribbon. Several times I have been obliged to lend an umbrella to men who got caught in the rain. Each of those umbrellas was ornamented with tufts of ribbon when the man left the house; when he brought it back the ribbon was gone. He had been ashamed to be seen walking along the street carrying an umbrella whose handle was trimmed with ribbon rosettes and had taken them off as soon as he left the house and had forgot to put them on again. Nowadays in order to save trouble for both of us, I take the ribbon off myself before offering a man an umbrella."

He Got the Job.

A traveler just returned from Japan tells the following story: A mercantile firm in Tokio, having extensive commercial relations with the United States, was desirous of engaging the services of a translator. Many applicants replied to the firm's advertisement, but one of the necessary qualifications was the ability to speak the English tongue in the vernacular, which qualification proved to be a stumbling block to most of the applicants for the position. Finally one appeared who had received his education in the United States, and on being asked if he was well versed in the vernacular, he replied, "Sure, Mike!" He secured the position.

To Keep Flowers Fresh.

"If you want to bring flowers in town from the country," said the girl who goes out occasionally, "don't bring them in your hand. If it takes you two hours to come in they will never revive, no matter how much water you put on them after you get here. Take a pasteboard shoe box, lay wet paper in it, put the flowers in, sprinkle them well, and put another layer of paper over them. Just bring them home with you and they'll keep fresh and sweet in your flat or studio for the longest kind of a time."

The Locksmith's Chance.

On the park bench sat two lovers. The passing locksmith dropped his kit and laughed long and uproariously. "Why do you laugh?" asked the park policeman. "Oh, just to get even," confided the locksmith. "You know love always laughs at locksmiths, so I thought it would be a good chance for the locksmith to laugh at love." And then the old man laughed himself out of sight.

Brilliant Display.

The Romeo of 1910 gently steered his air yacht to the vine-covered balcony. "Darling," he whispered, romantically, "I can see a dozen stars." "Be careful, Romeo," cautioned the fair Juliet, as she picked a rose from her Marlowe wave. "If pa comes out you will see a thousand stars." And even then the old position could be heard hunting for his cane.

A Harsh Reminder.

"Of course," said the stern schoolman, "I am the logical candidate." "Perhaps," answered Sir John Sturgham, "But you want to be a scholar that when it comes to talking up votes, it's mathematics and not logic that counts."

COURT DECIDED IN HIS FAVOR

Cooper Fought to Retain Formula Which Has Made a Fortune.

L. T. Cooper, the man who believes that 90 per cent. of all ill health of this generation is caused by stomach trouble, is fast winning a national faith in his theory. His claim is now admitted by a surprising number of people throughout the country, and he is gaining new adherents every day.

While speaking of his success in a recent interview, Mr. Cooper said: "I believe ten years ago that any one who could produce a formula that would thoroughly regulate the stomach would have a fortune. When I got hold of this formula I knew within six months that I was right, and that my fortune was made. I called the medicine Cooper's New Discovery, although I did not get up the formula. I have owned it, however, for over three years. I have had one lawsuit over it, which I won in the courts. When it was settled The Cooper Medicine Company became the only firm in the world that can prepare the medicine. The preparation has sold like wildfire wherever introduced. As I have said before, it is successful simply because it puts the stomach in perfect shape, then nature does the rest. There are any number of complaints never before associated with stomach trouble that the medicine has alleviated in thousands of cases."

Among statements obtained recently from users of this medicine that is arousing such universal discussion is one from Mrs. Emma Stanley, living in Chicago, at 713 Washington Boulevard, who said: "Perhaps I had the most complicated case that Mr. Cooper had to deal with. I was troubled for years with my stomach. I consulted with doctors and took many patent medicine preparations without result. My stomach was in such a wretched shape that I could not enjoy a meal that I ate.

"I was very nervous, and could hardly sleep; I had a roaring in my ears and dancing spots before my eyes. I felt very bad and weak. Then there was a very sore spot at the pit of my stomach that nearly set me wild.

"I heard about the Cooper medicine and decided to try it. I used four bottles, and the improvement in my case has been really wonderful. My nerves have been quieted, and I am so much improved that I feel like a new woman.

"I cannot say too much for these wonderful remedies, for they have made me well."

We sell the Cooper medicines and consider them well worth a trial by any one afflicted with chronic stomach trouble and its attendant diseases.
